CONGRATULATIONS!

This edition of the Consumer and Business Guide reflects thousands of major changes that have taken place in the area during the last year.

Since the publication of our first directory decades ago, we have grown to become the premier publisher of accurate, cost-effective cross-reference directories. Our print editions are now available in over 300 markets totaling more than 40 million listings. Cross+Search Plus, our CD-ROM version, will soon be available nationwide.

This directory is designed with one purpose in mind: To provide you, our customer, with the most comprehensive and accurate information available on area residents and businesses.

All of the listings in this guide are gathered from public record sources. We carefully piece together information from such diverse sources as the local telephone company, property records, United States Census Department, Direct Marketing Association, and the US Postal Service to create this unique publication.

CUSTOMER SERVICE

COVERAGE

For a detailed analysis of the areas covered by this publication, please consult the Market Planning Section (color code: yellow pages).

COPYRIGHT INFORMATION

Information in this directory may not be copied, reproduced or photocopied in part or in whole without written permission of the publisher.

What will I find in this publication?

Your Consumer and Business Guide features 6 distinct sections to assist you with your marketing, reference and investigative projects.

Market Planning Section (Color Code: Yellow pages)
A wealth of demographic information is presented to help you pinpoint areas having high concentrations of your best prospects. Residential and business counts are also provided to assist you in determining your market potential.

Location Section Street Index (Color Code: Blue pages)
Turn here to quickly locate any street and distinguish between streets of the same or similar name. This section lists most of the streets included in this guide in alphabetic order with postal Zip code and the Location Section page on which they begin. Numbered streets (if any) follow those streets with alphabetic names. This guide is also a handy reference for verifying the proper spelling of street names and obtaining the correct ZIP code.

Location Section Zip Code Index (Color Code: Tan pages)
Turn here to find the streets that are located in your prime target Zip code(s). Most of the streets contained in this directory are listed in alphabetic order by street name within Zip code. Please note that some streets may be listed in more that one Zip code.

Location Section Census Tract Index (Color Code: Green pages)
Turn here to find the streets that are located in your prime target Census Tract(s). Most of the streets contained in this directory are listed in alphabetic order by street name within Census Tract. Please note that some streets may be listed in more that one Census Tract.

Location Section
This section gives you a guided tour through the community street-by-street. Residential and business listings are arranged by street name in house number sequence. Ideal for address based marketing, reference, or investigative projects.

Numeric Section
This section is ideal for targeting telemarketing efforts by telephone prefix. It also takes the "guesswork" out of who called, blind numbers in advertising, or any other situation where only a telephone number is known. Listings in this section are arranged in telephone number sequence.

Market Planning Section Overview

You'll find six special reference tables in this section to assist you in identifying areas with high concentrations of your best prospects.

Some of these tables use United States Census data at a census tract level. Census tracts are small, statistical subdivisions of a county that average about 2,500 to 8,000 residents. Local committees define the census tract boundaries, which contain bordering neighborhoods. Census tracts are intended to contain relatively similar neighborhoods in respect to population characteristics and economic status. While the local committees and United States Bureau of Census have assigned census tracts to be as internally consistent as possible, it should be noted that Census data is based on averages. Individual households will, of course, vary from the neighborhood averages.

Glossary of Terms

Relative Affluence Rating- This rating has been developed based on census data such as household income, value of owner-occupied housing, and household rent. The ratings are:

5$ (or $$$$$) – Well above average
4$ (or $$$$) - Above average
3$ (or $$$) - Average
2$ (or $$) - Below average
1$ (or $) - Well below average

Median Income $1000's- This value divides the distribution of household income into two equal parts. For instance, a median income of $40 indicates that 50% of the households earn more than $40,000 per year, and 50% of the households earn less than $40,000 per year.

Median Home Value $1000's- This value divides the distribution of home values into two equal parts. For instance, a median home value of $80 indicates that 50% of the homes are valued at more than $80,000 and 50% of the homes are valued at less than $80,000.

Median Year Homes Built- This value divides the distribution of year homes built into two equal parts. For instance, a value of 1972 indicates that 50% of the homes were built before 1972 and 50% of the homes were built after 1972.

Percent Householder over 55- This value shows the percentage of householders over 55 years old. For instance, a value of 30 indicates that 30% of the householders are over 55. The Census Department designates one person in each household as the householder. In most cases, this is the person in whose name the home is owned, being bought or rented. If no such person in the household exists, any adult household member 15 years old and over is designated as the householder.

Percent Households with children- This value shows the percentage of households with children. For instance, a value of 20 indicates that 20% of the households have children. Children may include a son or daughter by birth, a stepchild, or adopted child under the age of 18 living at the residence.

Direct Marketing Preference Information

For the convenience of our customers who use direct marketing to consumers to sell their products, we identify residents that have registered their preference not to receive direct marketing solicitations by mail and/or telephone.

The Direct Marketing Association (DMA) maintains a list of households that do not wish to receive mail or telephone solicitations. Residents that appear on the current DMA list at the time of publication are identified with a symbol to the left of the listing name in both the Location and Numeric Sections of this directory.

In some states, marketing solicitations are restricted by law. For specific information about current state and federal laws contact the Direct Marketing Association. The DMA website is www.the-dma.org. The DMA Consumer and Government Affairs Departments can be reached at (202) 955-5030.

The DMA publishes several resources to keep marketers in compliance with federal and state regulations:

- Facts For Business: A Business Checklist for Direct Marketers
  (A Guide to all Federal Trade Commission Regulations)
- A Business Guide to the Federal Trade Commission's Mail or Telephone Order Merchandise Rule
- Complying with the Telemarketing Sales Rule (FTC)

Direct Marketing Preference Symbols

■	Consumer prefers not to receive direct mail solicitations.
●	Consumer prefers not to receive telephone solicitations.
◆	Consumer prefers not to receive direct mail or telephone solicitations.
+	No telephone sales calls (select states- see Note below)
x	Restricted from realtor solicitations (select New York City metro areas)

*Note: The "No telephone sales calls" indicator varies by state. Typically the source is either a statewide "Do Not Call" list or an indicator provided by the telephone company in the local white page telephone book. For current information concerning state and federal marketing laws contact the Direct Marketing Association.

Telephone Consumer Protection Act (TCPA)

Courtesy of the DMA

The Telephone Consumer Protection Act was passed in 1991. The Federal Communications Commission oversees the rules and regulations concerning the Act, which went onto effect on December 20, 1992. From a telephone marketer's viewpoint, the most significant part of the TCPA regulations concern commercial solicitation calls made to residences. Those making the calls are required to:

- Limit the calls to the period between 8 A.M and 9 P.M.
- Maintain a "do not call list" and honor any request to not be called again. When such a request is received, the requester may not be called again on behalf of the business for which the solicitation is made. One error is allowed in a twelve- month period. Subsequently, the soliciting companies are subject to penalties. A person's name must be kept on the "do not call list" indefinitely.
- Have a clearly written policy, available to anyone upon request.
- Have a clearly defined training program for their personnel making the telephone solicitations.
- If you are a service bureau, forward all requests to be removed from a list to the company on whose behalf you are calling. It is that company that is legally liable under the TCPA, not the service bureau. The "do not call" request must also be honored by any affiliate or subsidiary of the company if there is a reasonable expectation on the part of the consumer that their request would apply also to the affiliate or subsidiary.

A call is exempt from the TCPA if the call:

- Is made on behalf of a tax-exempt nonprofit organization.
- Is not made for a commercial purpose.
- Does not include an unsolicited advertisement, even if it is made for a commercial purpose.
- Is made to a consumer with whom the calling company has an established business relationship. This relationship cannot be established merely by having made a prior solicitation call. The customer ends this exemption when he or she requests that no more calls be made.

Dmpref2.doc

Other important provisions of the TCPA include:

- A ban on autodialers and prerecorded voice messages programmed to call any emergency phone lines (including 911 numbers, hospital emergency lines, physicians or medical service lines, health care facilities, poison control centers, fire protection or law enforcement agencies), pagers or cellular phones, or a call for which a charge is made to the calling party.

- A prohibition against the use of artificial or prerecorded voice messages to call a residence except in cases of emergency or if the caller has received prior express consent. (Such calls to businesses are not prohibited.)

- A prohibition against the use of an autodialer to engage two or more lines of a multi-line business.

- A requirement that anyone using an autodialer or an artificial or prerecorded voice message to call any number state the identity of the caller at the beginning of the message and give the address and phone number of the caller during the call.

- A ban on sending unsolicited advertisements by fax to anyone without prior written consent. A prior business relationship is considered consent unless the recipient of the fax withdraws that consent.

The TCPA can be enforced in at least three different ways:

- The individual who receives a call after a name removal request has been given to the caller is granted a private right of action in a local court and may sue for $500 in damages for each violation. In some cases, the courts can levy triple damages. Similar suits may be filed for violations of the TCPA's provisions regarding faxes, autodialers, and artificial or prerecorded messages.

- States may initiate civil action against offending companies on behalf of their citizens.

- Complaints may be filed with the Federal Communications Commission, which has the power to assess penalties against parties in violation of the TCPA.

Explanation of Tables

#1- Counts by Community
This table provides the number of residential and non-residential listings included in each community in this publication. The number of new and changed listings also is included. Use this table to determine which communities have the highest population concentrations and new mover activity.

#2- Privacy Statistics by Community
Use this table to identify the number of consumers in each community that have registered their preference not to receive direct marketing solicitations.

#3- Counts by Community and Census Tract
Use this table to gain a better understanding of the population characteristics within communities. Most of the communities in this publication are listed along with key census demographics for their corresponding census tracts. Please note that some census tracts may be listed in multiple communities. In this table, the residential listings counts are based upon the number of households within the community that are assigned to the indicated census tract. Some households within a community may not be assigned to a census tract.

#4- Counts by Postal ZIP Code
This table provides the number of residential and non-residential listings included in each ZIP code in this publication. The number of new and changed listings also is included. Use this table to determine which ZIP codes have the highest population concentrations and new mover activity. Once you've decided on the ZIP code(s) to target, the Location Section ZIP Code Index (tan pages) will assist you in locating the desired streets in your market area.

#5- Counts by ZIP Code and Census Tract
Use this table to gain a better understanding of the population characteristics within target ZIP Code(s). Most of the ZIP Codes in this publication are listed along with key census demographics for their corresponding census tracts. Please note that some census tracts may be listed in multiple ZIP Codes. In this table, the residential listings counts are based upon the number of households within the ZIP Code that are assigned to the indicated census tract. Some households within a ZIP Code may not be assigned to a census tract.

#6- Counts by Census Tract
Use this table to gain a better understanding of the population characteristics within target census tract(s). Once you've decided on the census tract(s) to target, the Location Section Census Tract Index (green pages) will assist you in locating the desired streets in your market area. Some households within this publication may not be assigned to a census tract.
